Career Coaching for Graduate Students

LGS offers career coaching appointments for graduate students with a range of professional career coaches who specialize in different areas. Our coaches are very experienced with graduate education and can offer guidance on topics such as: navigating general questions about graduate school, assessing your strengths, interests, and values, practicing strategies for networking (in-person and online), learning about diverse career paths, assembling documents (i.e. resume, cover letter) for job applications, and interviewing strategies.

Online Resources for Graduate Students

As a student in the Laney Graduate School, you have access to a variety of online resources for building skills and exploring careers. A list of these resources and instructions for accessing them may be found here:

<https://www.gs.emory.edu/professional-development/sharpening-skills/online-resources.html>.

Beyond the Professoriate

Beyond the Professoriate is an online professional development training platform that supports PhD students and postdoctoral scholars in leveraging their education into meaningful careers inside and outside the professoriate. Through this platform, students can explore career options, discover and articulate their values and skills, and learn job search strategies through live and on-demand courses, webinars, videos, and workbooks.

Beyond Graduate School

Beyond Graduate School is an online professional development training platform that supports master's students in leveraging their education into meaningful careers. Through this platform, students can explore career options, discover and articulate their values and skills, and learn job search strategies through live and on-demand courses, webinars, videos, and workbooks.

Center for the Integration of Teaching and Learning (CIRTL)

This fall, the Center for the Integration of Teaching and Learning (CIRTL) is offering 3 courses, 1 event series, and 10 workshops for graduate students and postdocs pursuing teaching careers in STEM disciplines. Fall programming covers a range of teaching and learning topics: accessibility, evidence-based teaching fundamentals, teaching development for postdocs, academic professional development, science communication, and teaching-as-research. Most CIRTL programs are free for LGS students and faculty through Emory's institutional membership.

National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity (NCFDD)

The National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity (NCFDD) offers workshops, webinars, and resources to empower students and faculty to thrive in academia. Topics include planning and prioritizing, developing a daily writing practice, time management, mentorship, overcoming perfectionism, engaging in healthy conflict, and dealing with stress and rejection.

Professional Development and Career Planning Resource Repository

We have accumulated recordings and resources related to our offices' trainings for graduate students. We have made these available on our PDCP Resource Repository, which is a Canvas page that may be accessed by permission.

To request access, please contact the Professional Development and Career Planning office at (lgs.profdev@emory.edu). Once you have been granted access, you may access the Resource Repository here.
